

Lookitup creates a source boundary before publication.

Turn doubt into evidence before publishing.

A fake visual became news.

The Kamchatka snow claim crossed platforms and newsrooms before the evidence trail was visible.

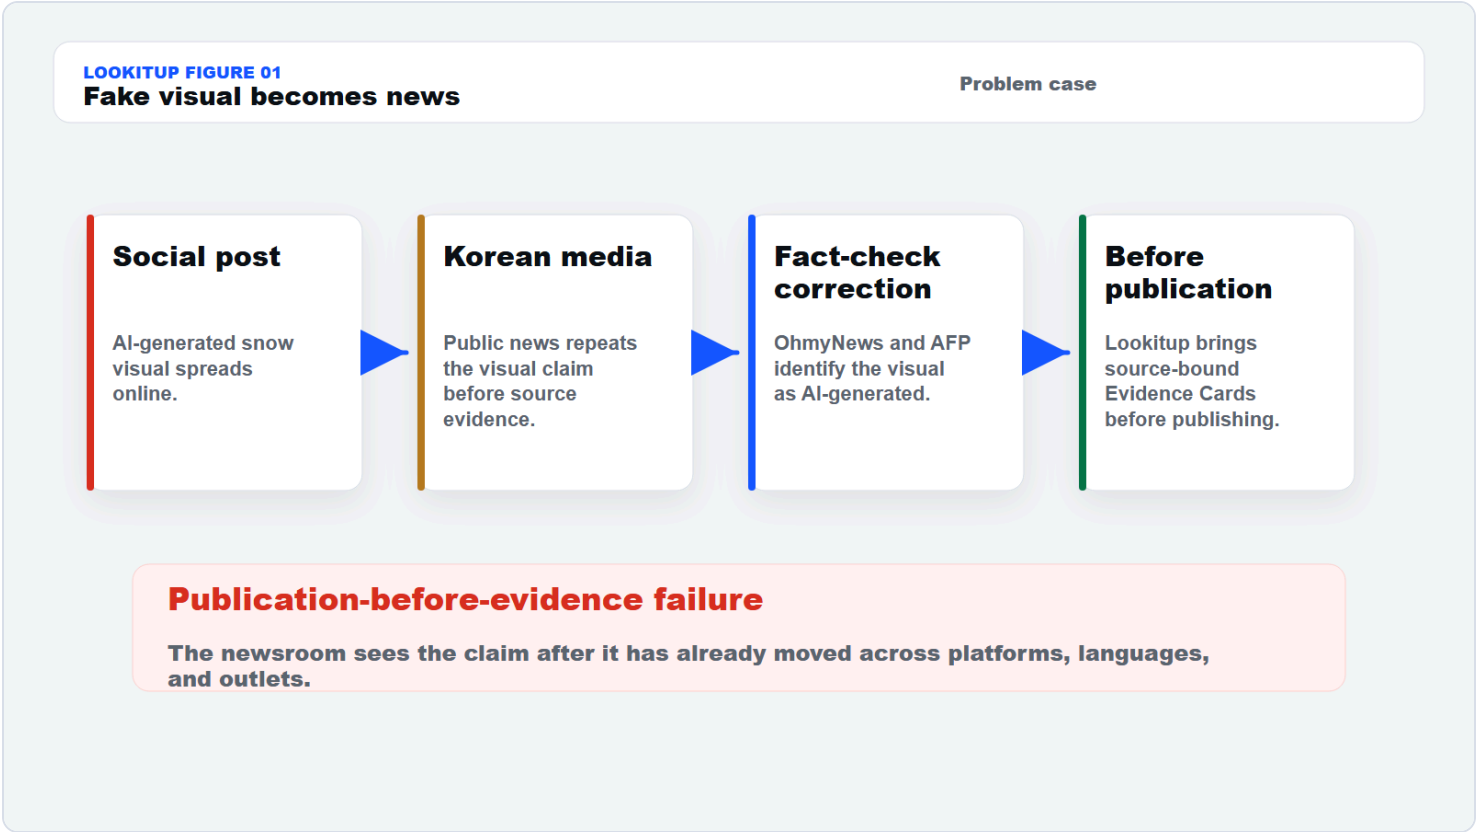

Figure 1. A claim reached publication before the evidence caught up.

Journalists work in minutes.

"maximum five minutes"
Helena Pilar Gisbert, AFP

"15 minutes"
Helena Pilar Gisbert, AFP

"clients absolutely trust us 100%"
Helena Pilar Gisbert, AFP

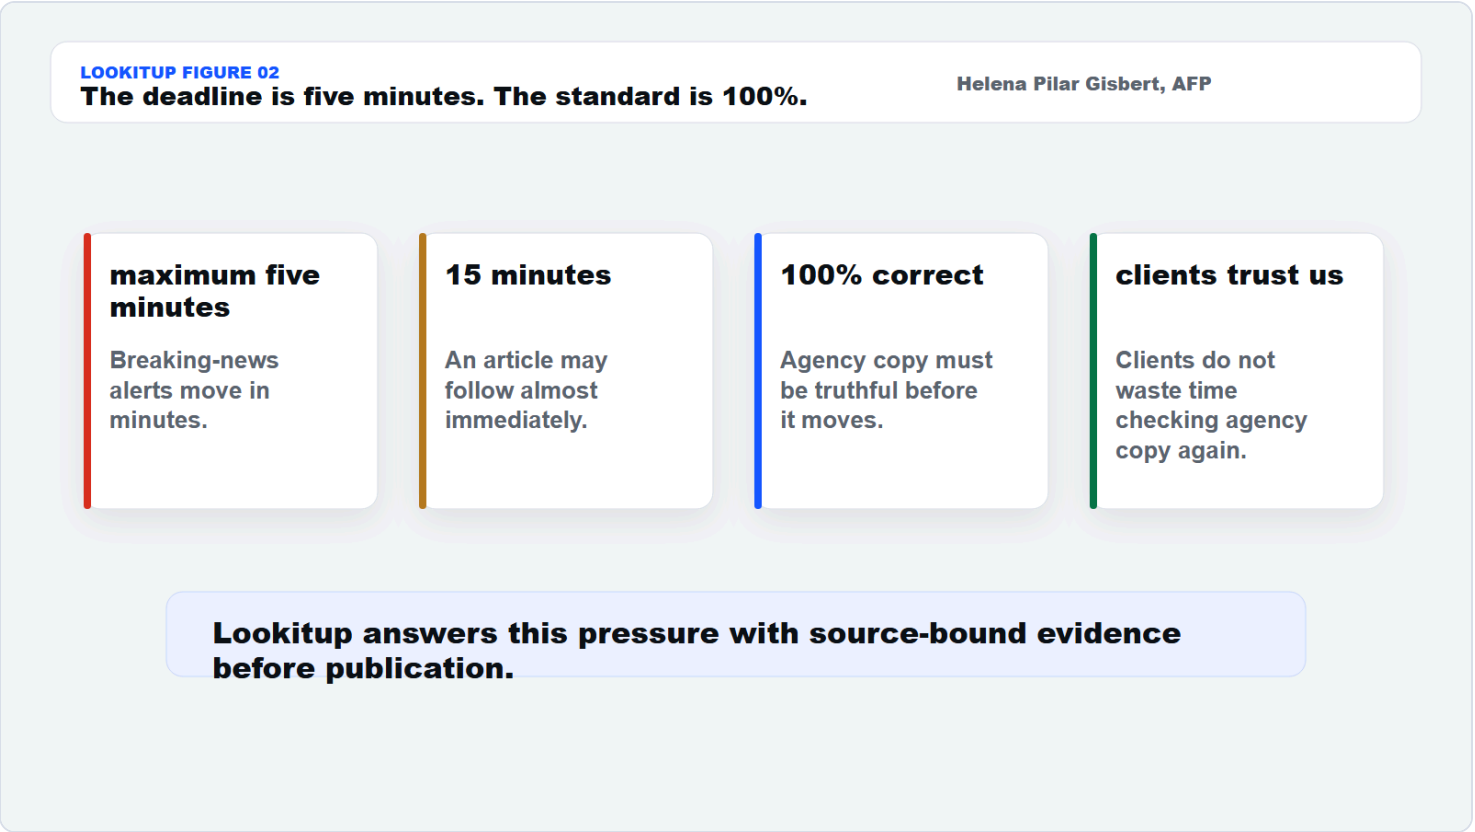

Figure 2. Speed and trust define the newsroom pressure.

Source control is the missing layer.

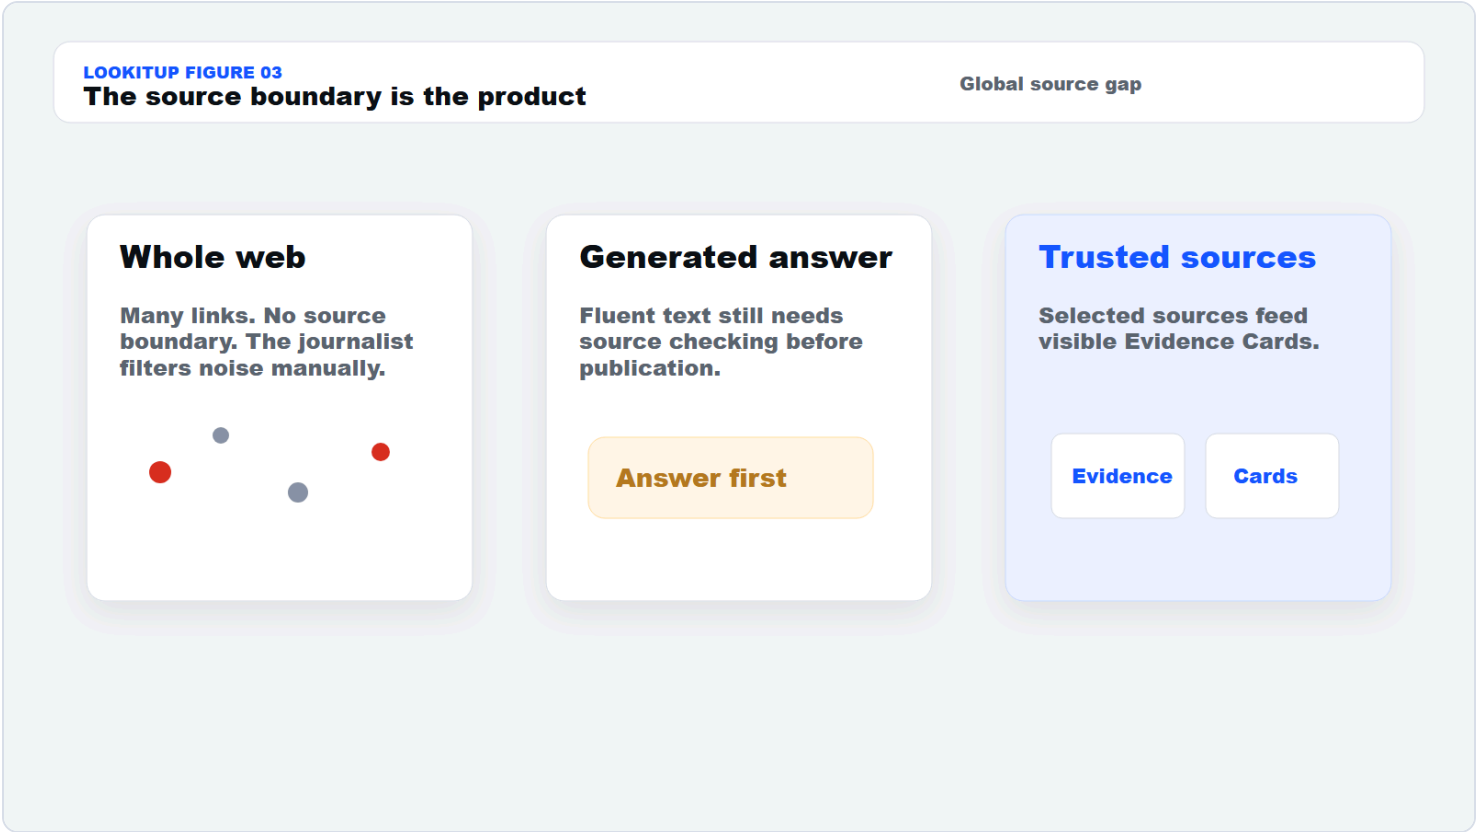

Figure 3. Lookup narrows verification to trusted sources.

Lookitup creates the source boundary.

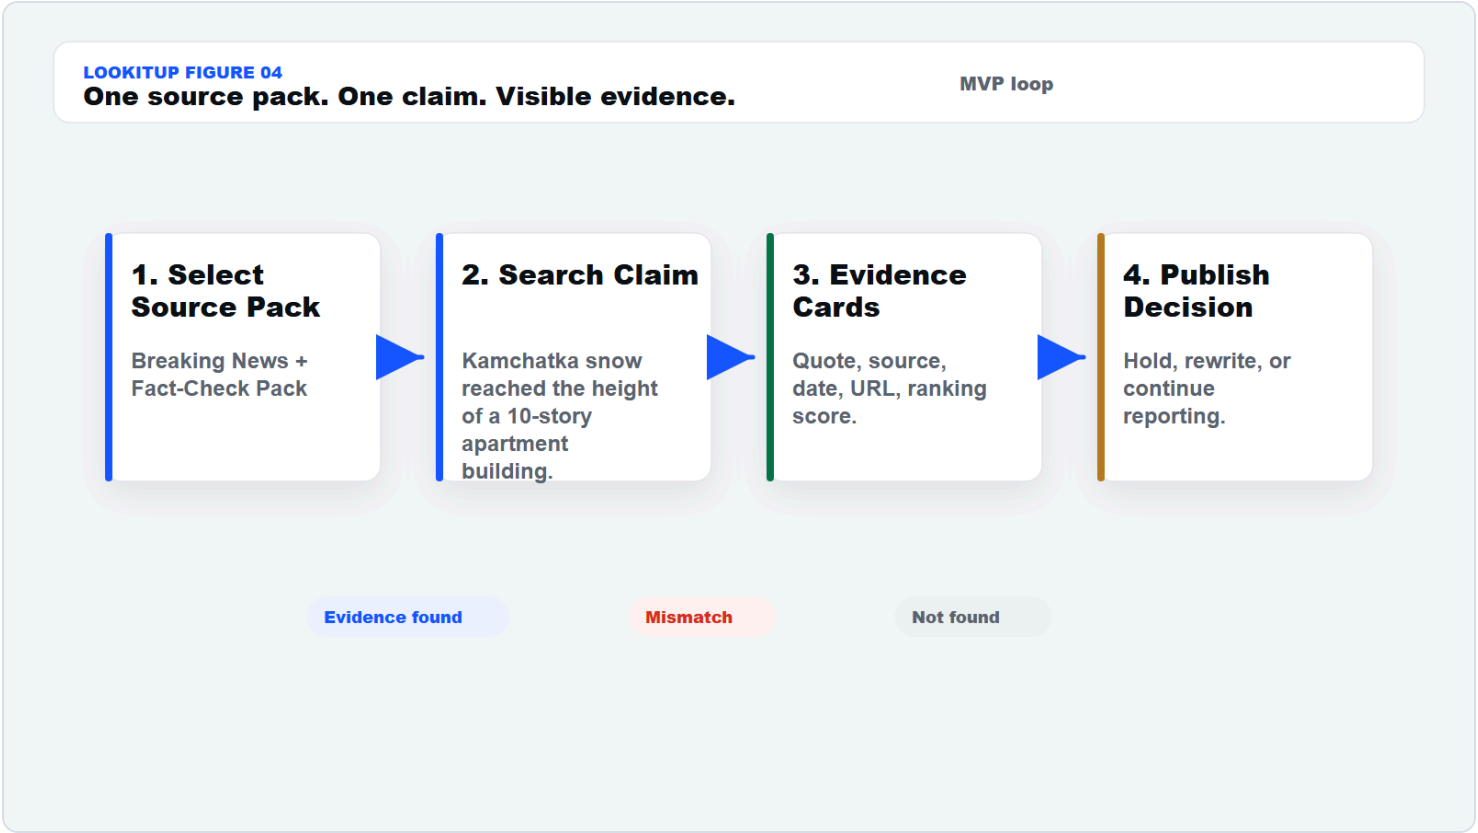

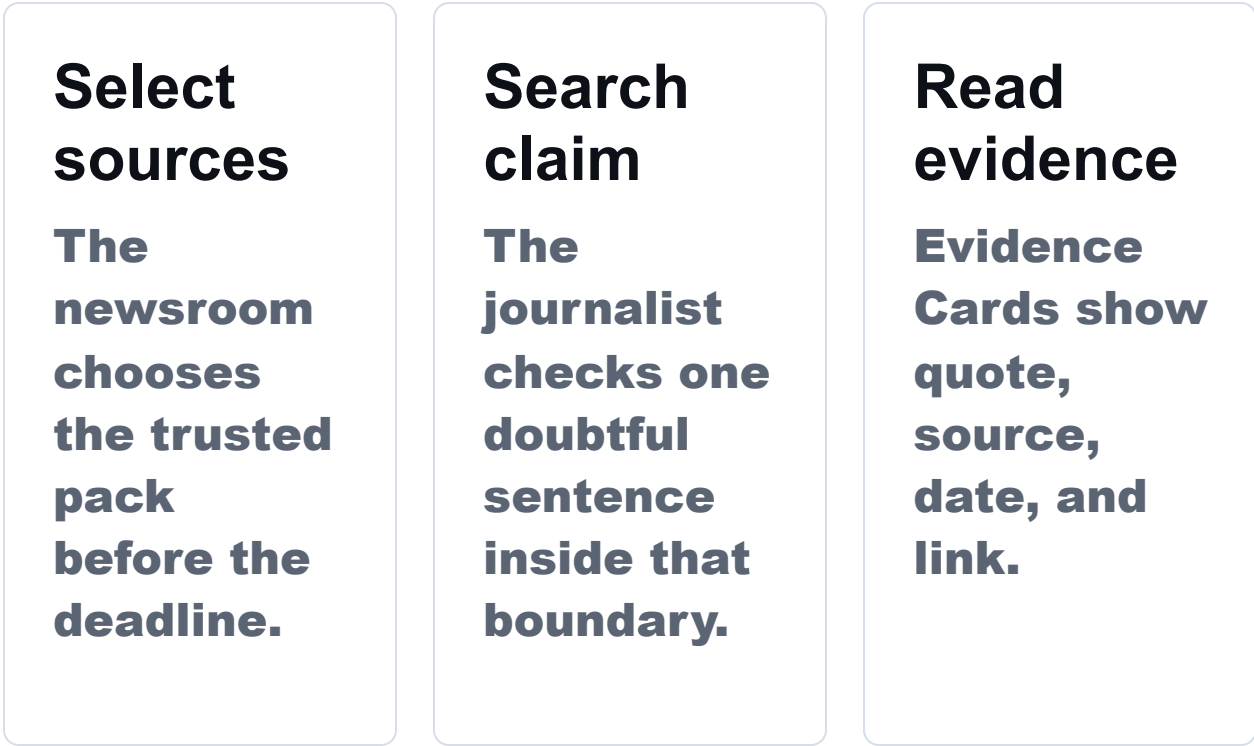

Figure 4. One source pack. One claim. Visible evidence.

One claim enters.

Breaking News + Fact-Check Pack

OhmyNews Fact Check
OhmyNews follow-up
AFP Fact Check
Local fallback corpus

Claim before publication

Kamchatka snow reached the height of a 10-story apartment building.

Search trusted sources

Evidence Cards appear.

Contradicts claim

Korean media reported AI-manipulated Kamchatka snow visuals as real.

OhmyNews Fact Check · Jan. 22, 2026

Context

KBS and MBC later deleted related AI snow videos.

OhmyNews follow-up · Jan. 23, 2026

Contradicts claim

Massive Kamchatka snow footage circulating online was AI-generated.

AFP Fact Check · Jan. 29, 2026

Controlled retrieval powers the demo.

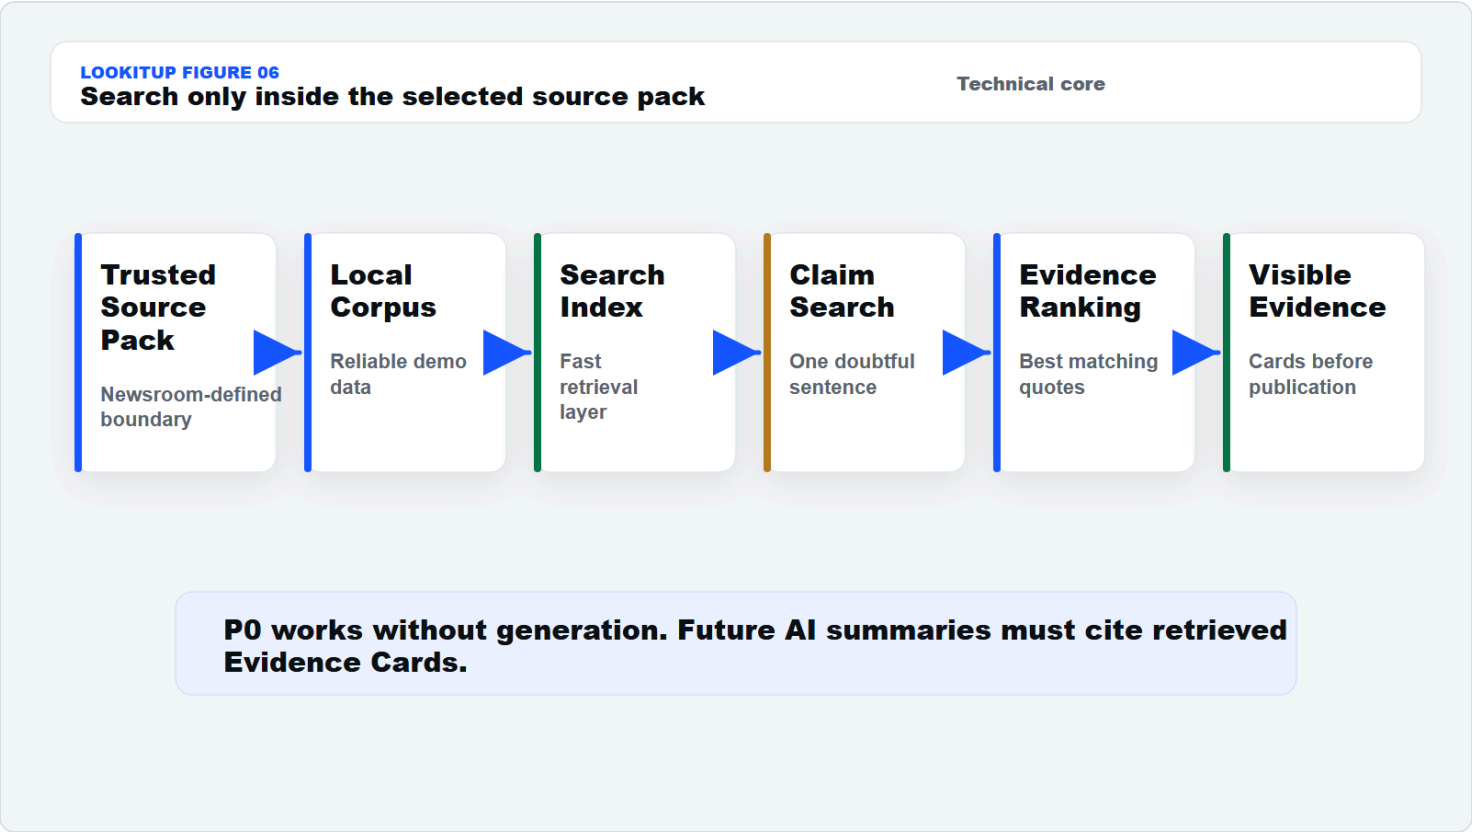

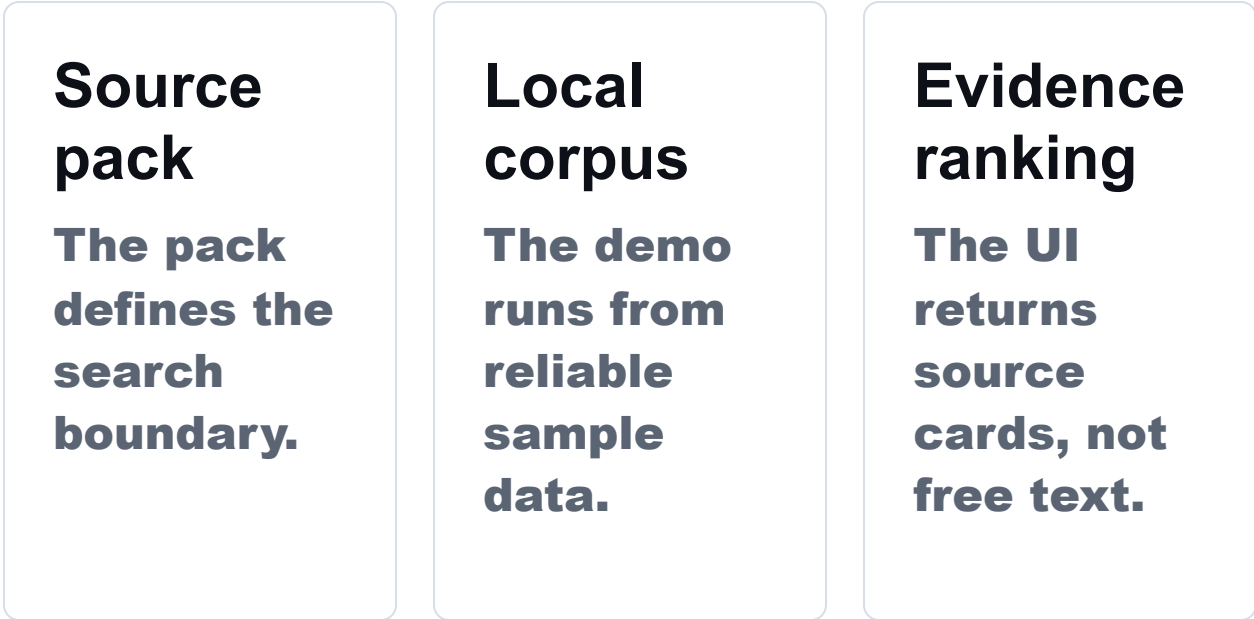

Figure 6. Controlled retrieval makes the source boundary visible.

The KPI is time-to-evidence.

48h

- source packs
- local search
- Evidence Cards

1 month

- saved packs
- URL/RSS
- PDF

3 months

- pilot
- editor review
- KPI test

6 months

- multilingual
- provenance
- video

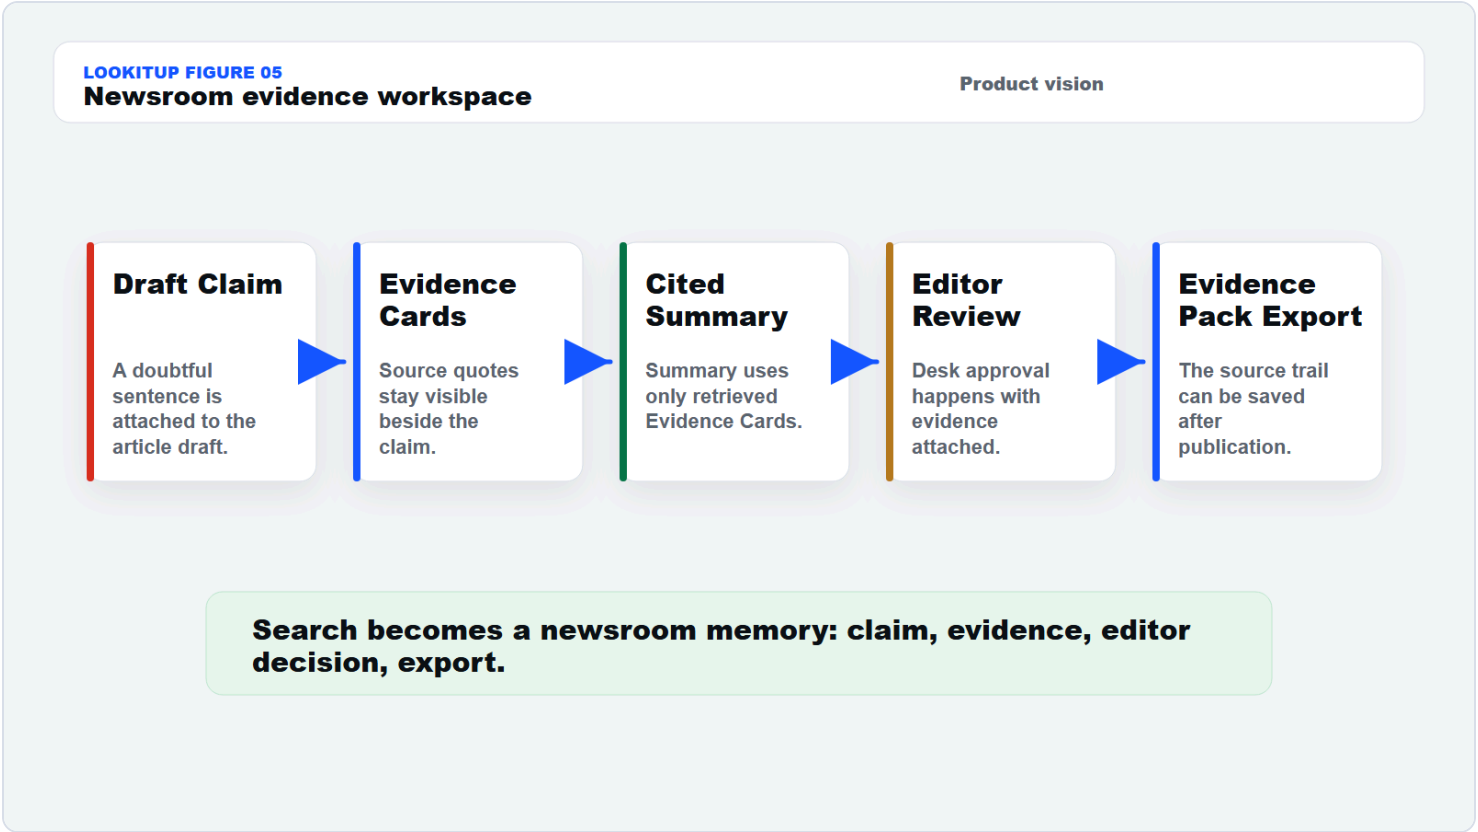

Figure 5. The source-bound loop grows into newsroom workflow.

Turn doubt into evidence before publishing.

Lookitup stops unverified claims before they become published news.